

Energy Conservation Activities

The college actively promotes energy efficiency through a structured set of initiatives led by the Energy Conservation Cell. This committee plays a central role in monitoring, auditing, and guiding responsible energy use across the campus.

One of the key practices is the replacement of old lighting systems with LED bulbs and energy-efficient tube lights, which significantly reduce electricity consumption. Fans and electrical appliances are also regularly checked to ensure they operate efficiently and do not contribute to unnecessary power usage.

The Energy Conservation Cell conducts regular visits to classrooms, laboratories, staff rooms, corridors, and administrative areas to audit electricity consumption. During these inspections, members ensure that lights, fans, and electronic devices are switched off when not in use. They also identify any malfunctioning equipment and report it promptly for repair or replacement.

Awareness is promoted through “Save Energy” notices displayed across campus, along with periodic sensitization sessions for students and staff. The cell encourages maximum use of natural light and ventilation by promoting the practice of keeping windows and doors open during daytime, thereby reducing dependence on artificial lighting.

Through continuous monitoring, periodic audits, energy-efficient infrastructure, and awareness-building, the college maintains a responsible and environmentally conscious atmosphere, ensuring that energy is conserved effectively at all levels of campus functioning.
